Whether you can get a refund after missing a Delta flight depends on three key factors: your fare type, whether you cancelled before or after the flight departed, and whether you were marked as a no-show. This guide explains exactly when you can get your money back, when you receive an eCredit instead, and when your ticket value is completely forfeited. The most important rule: acting before your flight departs always gives you more options. Call +1-844-994-3876 (24/7) or Refunds at +1-844-994-3876 immediately.

Does Delta Give Refunds If You Miss Your Flight?

For non-refundable tickets: no cash refund. If you cancel before the flight departs, you receive a Delta eCredit for the full unused value. After the flight departs as a no-show, your ticket has zero value. For refundable tickets: a cash refund is available any time before departure. Call +1-844-994-3876 before your plane departs.

The rule is simple but critical: the timing of your action relative to departure determines everything. For non-refundable tickets, the window between 'some value' and 'zero value' is the moment your plane departs with you marked as a no-show. Call +1-844-994-3876 even 5 minutes before your scheduled departure to protect your eCredit.

What Is Delta's No-Show Policy for Missed Flights?

Delta's no-show policy: if you fail to check in and do not contact Delta before your flight departs, your ticket is forfeited — no eCredit, no refund, and all remaining segments on your booking are automatically cancelled. Avoid this entirely by calling +1-844-994-3876 before your flight departs.

A no-show is the worst-case scenario for a missed flight. It means the airline allocated your seat to another passenger and treats the ticket as used. The forfeiture includes all downstream segments — if you no-showed on your outbound, your return flight is also cancelled. The no-show policy applies to all fare types. It is entirely avoidable with one call to +1-844-994-3876.

What Is the Difference Between Cancelling Before and After a Missed Flight?

Cancelling BEFORE departure: your non-refundable ticket converts to a full Delta eCredit with no deduction. After (no-show): zero value. This difference can be worth hundreds of dollars. Call +1-844-994-3876 the moment you know you will miss your flight.

- Cancel BEFORE departure (non-refundable): Full Delta eCredit issued. No fee deducted. Usable on future bookings.
- Cancel BEFORE departure (refundable): Full cash refund to original payment method.
- No-show (miss without cancelling): Zero value. No eCredit. No refund. All remaining segments cancelled.
- Miss due to Delta's fault (Delta caused connection miss): Full cash refund or free rebooking.
- Even calling 1 minute before scheduled departure can protect your eCredit.

How Do I Cancel Before My Flight to Protect My eCredit? Cancel before your flight departs: call +1-844-994-3876, go to 'My Trips' at delta.com, or use the Fly Delta app. Say or select 'Cancel Flight.' Your eCredit is issued immediately and stored in your SkyMiles account. Act before the scheduled departure — not boarding.

Step 1. The moment you know you will miss your flight, call +1-844-994-3876 (24/7) or open delta.com → My Trips.

Step 2. Provide your PNR and passenger name. Tell the agent: 'I will miss my departure and want to cancel before the flight departs to protect my eCredit.'

Step 3. Confirm the cancellation. The agent confirms your eCredit amount — it equals the full unused ticket value.

Step 4. Your eCredit is immediately stored in your SkyMiles account and a confirmation email is sent.

Step 5. To use your eCredit: log in at delta.com, search for a new flight, and apply the credit on the payment screen.

Step 6. eCredits issued after May 2022 generally do not expire — verify terms in your cancellation confirmation email.

Can I Get a Cash Refund If Delta Caused Me to Miss My Flight?

Yes. If Delta caused you to miss a flight — through a delay, cancellation, or a gate change you were not notified of — you are entitled to a full cash refund or free rebooking regardless of fare type. Call +1-844-994-3876 or +1-844-994-3876 to claim.

When Delta is the cause of a missed connection, DOT regulations require them to make it right. Document your situation: note the original flight number, the delay duration, and how it caused your miss. Call +1-844-994-3876 and say: 'Flight DL [XXX] was delayed and caused me to miss my connection DL [YYY]. I am requesting a full cash refund or rerouting at no additional cost.'

What Happens to My Connecting Flights If I Miss the First Segment? If you miss the first segment as a no-show, Delta automatically cancels all remaining segments. To prevent this: call +1-844-994-3876 before the first flight departs and ask agents to protect your remaining itinerary while you rebook the missed segment.

This is the most expensive consequence of a no-show on a multi-segment booking. A round-trip ticket with a missed outbound segment becomes zero value on both directions if you do not call. Agents at +1-844-994-3876 can flag your booking as 'actively managing a missed segment' which prevents automatic downstream cancellation — a 30-second call that can save hundreds or thousands of dollars.

How Much Does It Cost to Rebook After Missing a Delta Flight? Rebooking

after a missed Delta flight ranges from free to several hundred dollars, depending on your fare type, available flights, and timing. Same-Day Standby is always free. Same-Day Confirmed Change is $75. Future-date rebooking involves a fare difference. Call +1-844-994-3876 for an exact quote.

- Same-Day Standby (free): Added to waitlist for a later same-day flight. Board if space opens. No charge.
- Same-Day Confirmed Change ($75): Guaranteed seat on a specific later same-day flight. Platinum/Diamond Medallion: free.
- Flat tire rule rebook (free, discretionary): Agent reaccommodates at no charge if you arrive within ~2 hours and have a reason.
- Rebook on future date: Fare difference between your original ticket and the new flight — can range from $0 to $500+.
- Buy new ticket (worst case): Full last-minute fare, typically the most expensive option.

Does Travel Insurance Cover a Missed Delta Flight Refund? Many travel insurance policies cover missed flights if the cause was unforeseeable — accident, medical emergency, severe weather, or public transport failure. Coverage may include the missed ticket value, additional hotel costs, and rebooking fees. Call your insurer immediately after the miss. Travel insurance does not cover every missed flight — self-caused misses are typically excluded. Covered reasons vary by policy but generally include: a covered accident or medical emergency, a documented traffic incident, or a natural disaster. When filing, get documentation from Delta confirming your no-show and original ticket value, and keep all receipts for additional costs.

Can I Use My Delta eCredit After Missing a Flight?

Yes. If you cancelled before your missed flight's departure, your Delta eCredit is in your SkyMiles account and can be applied to any future Delta booking. Log in at delta.com, search for a new flight, and click 'Apply Travel Credit' at checkout. For help using your eCredit, call +1-844-994-3876.

eCredits auto-populate on the payment screen when you are logged in at delta.com. If they do not appear, click 'Apply a Travel Credit or Certificate' and enter the eCredit number from your cancellation confirmation email. Multiple eCredits can be combined on a single booking. What If I Missed My Delta Flight Due to a Medical Emergency? For documented medical emergencies, Delta handles refund requests compassionately case-by-case. Call +1-844-994-3876 and ask for a supervisor or customer relations. Provide medical documentation. Supervisors can issue eCredits, cash refunds, or waive rebooking fees for genuine medical situations.

Call +1-844-994-3876 as soon as you are able and say: 'I missed my Delta flight due to a medical emergency and I have documentation. I am requesting a refund or waiver.' Ask specifically for a supervisor — front-line agents have less authority in these cases. Follow up in writing at delta.com/feedback with supporting documents. International callers use +1-844-213-9506.

How Long Do I Have to Rebook After Missing a Delta Flight? For same-day

rebooking options (standby, confirmed change), you must act on the same calendar day as the original flight. Your eCredit (if you cancelled before departure) does not expire for most tickets issued after May 2022. For future-date rebooking, call +1-844-994-3876 within 24 hours for the best options.

Same-day options close at midnight on the day of your missed flight. After midnight, rebooking follows standard change rules — fare differences may apply. Your eCredit remains available indefinitely (for qualifying tickets) so there is no pressure to rebook immediately. The value of speed is in securing same-day options.

Does Missing a Delta Basic Economy Flight Give Any Refund?

Delta Basic Economy tickets that are no-showed have zero value — no refund, no eCredit. If cancelled before the flight departs outside the 24-hour window, Basic Economy tickets also have zero residual value. Same-day standby may not be available for Basic Economy. Call +1-844-994-3876 to confirm your specific options.

Basic Economy is the most restrictive fare — designed for travelers with firm plans. The only options for a missed Basic Economy: (1) if the plane has not departed, call +1-844-994-3876 and ask if a supervisor can help, (2) use the 24-hour rule if still within that window (very rare in a missed-flight scenario), (3) file a travel insurance claim if your policy covers the miss reason.
